

Foreign Branch Report of Condition

FFIEC 030

General Instructions

Who Must Report

Every insured commercial bank with one or more branch offices in a foreign country is required to prepare a Foreign Branch Report of Condition for each foreign office in accordance with the following instructions.

The Foreign Branch Report of Condition must be prepared as of December 31st of each year. In addition, significant branches with either total assets of at least $2 billion or commitments to purchase foreign currencies and U.S. dollar exchange (a purchase of U.S. dollar exchange is equivalent to a sale of foreign currency) of at least $5 billion, as of the end of a calendar quarter, are required to report quarterly. Such reporting should commence on the quarter end in which the branch meets the significance threshold. A significant branch that diminishes in size and no longer meets the threshold ceases to be a significant branch and should stop reporting quarterly commencing on the quarter end in which the office drops below the threshold. The bank regulatory authorities may specifically require the report to be filed by other banking organizations that the authorities deem to have significant risk exposures.

To the extent applicable, these instructions correspond to the Instructions to the Consolidated Report of Condition (FFIEC 031) and supporting schedules. In view of this, the respondent should refer to the FFIEC 031 instructions if further clarification is needed in preparing the FFIEC 030.

The terms “foreign branch” and “foreign country” are defined in Title 12, Part 211.2 (Federal Reserve Regulation K). The term “foreign branch” includes branches located in any territory, dependency or insular possession of the United States, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or in any foreign country, with one exception. For purposes of this report, military banking facilities are not considered to be foreign branches and should not be reported individually or in consolidated figures.

Submission of the Reports

The Federal Reserve acts as the collecting and processing agent on behalf of the federal bank supervisory agencies.

The reports must be submitted on the report forms provided by the Federal Reserve System. No caption on the report forms shall be changed in any way. No item is to be left blank. An entry must be made for each item; i.e., an amount or a zero.

Where and When to Submit the Report

The completed and signed original report shall be submitted within 45 days after the December 31st reporting date and, for significant branches, end-of-quarter reporting date. The report should be sent only to the Federal Reserve Bank in the district in which your main office is located. It is not necessary to send a courtesy copy to your primary federal banking regulator if you are a national bank or FDIC-insured nonmember bank. The Federal Reserve will make this information available to the other federal bank supervisory agencies.

Quarterly Reporting Requirement for Significant Branches

Reporting branches that are required to submit the report quarterly must report within 45 days of the last day of each calendar quarter. Branches are required to report quarterly if they have either $2 billion in total assets (item 14) or $5 billion in commitments to purchase foreign currencies and U.S. dollar exchange (item 26) as of the end of a quarter. Such branches must not be consolidated with any other branches in any quarter, including the December 31st report.

Completion of the Report Form on a Consolidated Basis

At the bank's option, branches in a single country may report year-end information on a consolidated basis. When this option is exercised, all branches, other than significant branches (as defined above), in the same country must be consolidated on a line-by-line basis on one report form. On the cover sheet, provide the name and address of the principal branch (which is the nonsignificant branch with the most total assets) in the country, the number of branches that are consolidated, and the addresses of the consolidated branches on the lines provided. However, foreign branches that meet the threshold for reporting on a quarterly basis (that is, significant branches) must not be consolidated with any other branch.

Intrabank Transactions

Intrabank transactions include transactions with other foreign branches of the reporting branch's bank, the head office and U.S. branches of the reporting branch's bank, and consolidated subsidiaries of the reporting branch's bank. All balances and positions due from and due to these entities (other than off-balance sheet items) should be reported as net amounts in Asset line items 10 through 12 and Liability line items 21 through 23, as appropriate. Intrabank off-balance sheet transactions may be either excluded from or included in line items 26 through 31, but the reporting branch's treatment of these off-balance sheet transactions should be followed on a consistent basis.

Intrabank transactions do not include transactions with the parent holding company of the reporting branch's bank and with other subsidiaries of the parent holding company of the reporting branch's bank (unless such subsidiaries are also subsidiaries of the bank). Transactions with the parent holding company and its other subsidiaries are treated as transactions with third parties, and all balance sheet items resulting from these transactions should be included in Asset line items 1 through 9 and 13 and Liability line items 15 through 20 and 24, as appropriate. Off-balance sheet items with these entities should be included in line items 26 through 31, as appropriate.

Foreign Currency Translation

All amounts must be expressed in U.S. dollar equivalents, using exchange rates prevailing on the reporting date. Report all amounts in thousands of U.S. dollars.

Negative Entries

Except as described below, all amounts should be reported as positive balances in thousands of U.S. dollars, with one exception. When one branch of the bank creates an acceptance and the holder sells the acceptance to another branch of the same bank, the "creating" branch may not know that the acceptance has been purchased by another branch of the same bank. Therefore, to prevent duplication in the consolidated bank acceptance totals, the purchasing branch should record the transaction by debiting "Own acceptances purchased" (commercial and industrial loans, item 6(c)) and crediting cash or the seller's account. It must also deduct that amount from its own "Customers' liability for acceptances outstanding" (item 7) and "Bank's liability on acceptances executed and outstanding" (item 19) accounts. Amounts that must appear as negatives should be shown in parentheses.

Amended Reports

If a report submitted by a branch is found to contain significant errors, as determined by the federal bank supervisory agencies, the submitting institution may be required to file an amended report. Respondents should refer to the general instructions in the Consolidated Report of Condition for further information on the filing requirements for amended reports.
